@THE OLDE BELL, HURLEY, BERKSHIRE

SUNDAY 17TH JUNE

Take the old man somewhere special this year and head down to The Olde Bell, a 5 star inn nestled in a picture-perfect village.

This historic timber framed building provides the ideal setting for feasting, lodging and, now, a mini literary festival! 'Bell Stories', a special Father's Day event, will see the work of award-winning authors showcased alongside a line-up of exciting new literary talent. Jon Ronson will headline the celebration with a discussion of his latest book, The Psychopath's Test with a follow-up interview by ex GQ editor James Brown.

All readings and talks will take place in the Tithe Barn, a 16th Century Tudor barn and the 18th Century Malt House - which benefits from its own private garden, music room, party room, private bar and oak panelled library.

 FINE DINING IN PUTNEY

In its near 900 year history The Olde Bell has welcomed a host of celebrity guests, who have come from far afield to enjoy the inn's rich gourmet cuisine and slick country aesthetic. If it was good enough for Winston Churchill and Richard Burton - odds on you'll have a happy father on the day.

You may even find time for a champagne picnic in a wooded meadow- it is only once a year after all.
